GREETING

Dear people of Ludwigsburg!
Ladies and gentlemen!
Dear friends in our partner cities!

This brochure about our twinnings will give you some insights into the most important aspects of our five partner cities, Montbéliard (1950), Caerphilly (1960), Yevpatoria (1990), St. Charles (1996) and Nový Jičín (2012). The city of Ludwigsburg, which signed the first German-French twinning agreement with Montbéliard in 1950, is one of the pioneers of the twin town movement. The agreement allowed both cities to expand a centuries' old connection between Württemberg and the county of Montbéliard (1297–1783). While the first years were characterised by the reconciliation process between the former enemies of war, a basis of trust could soon be established. As a result, the adolescents of our partner cities can now encounter one another unburdened. In 2006, Ludwigsburg and Montbéliard got the ball rolling again with a joint Africa project, which gave the oldest twin town agreement a new purpose.

Our good relationships with our partners, which have been cultivated across the generations on many levels – from nursery schools to seniors' clubs – enable many Ludwigsburg citizens to have direct and personal encounters with people from other countries. Exchange programmes among the adolescents are particularly important to us, whether through schools, sports clubs, cultural encounters, or exchanges between associations, churches, and other institutions – and, last but not least, our administrations. It is important to us to discuss current issues with our partners – sustainable urban development, budgets that take all generations into consideration, demographic change, and the integration of immigrants, just to name a few – and thus benefit from the experiences and best practices of other municipalities from around the world. In an annual review about our twinning, we share information about these meetings. You can find these reviews online at www.ludwigsburg.de.

This brochure is an invitation for you to discover our twin and sister cities and become better acquainted with them, perhaps by visiting one on holiday or with your association or school, during a sports competition, or a joint cultural event. Since our twin partners also find one another interesting, we have presented our own city and published this brochure in English and French.

We hope you enjoy discovering the many interesting special features and sights of our partner cities and maybe even in Ludwigsburg!

Kind regards,

SHORT INFO

Ludwigsburg is located in the southwestern region of the Federal Republic of Germany, right at the gates of the automobile metropolis Stuttgart and the picturesque Black Forest. Places of touristic and economic interest, such as Frankfurt, Munich, or Lake Constance, are within about two hours' drive away. Ludwigsburg is especially characterised by its excellently maintained baroque buildings, such as the Ludwigsburg Baroque Palace, the Monrepos summer residence, and the Hunting Lodge Favourite. A variety of festivals take place throughout the year, ensuring a diverse and lively city life.

ADMINISTRATIVE GOALS

The modern municipal administration of Ludwigsburg has made it its mission to make life in Ludwigsburg as attractive and conscientiously sustainable as possible for all citizens. The department of Sustainable Urban Development, which was created specifically for this purpose, focuses on these aspects in order to ensure that living and working in Ludwigsburg is sustainable and thus equally attractive for all citizens and businesses. In the future conference, which takes place every three years, the citizens are asked to share their opinions. Here, participants collaborate with the municipal administration and city council to collect new ideas and recommendations. The further development of trendsetting technologies is an important goal for the municipal administration, which is why the Living LaB network was founded. In the innovation network, which was founded in 2015, the city of Ludwigsburg works together with partners from business, the industry, and research institutions in a unique cooperation. This collaboration is intended to develop impetus for new, innovative technologies that can be tested in the city under real-life conditions.

BRIEF HISTORY

Duke Eberhard Ludwig von Württemberg began building the Baroque Palace in 1704. In a display of his power, he ordered the city to be founded in his name in 1709. Today, the city centre is still characterised by beautiful baroque buildings. For example, the birth homes of Edward Mörike and Justinus Kerner are in close proximity to the building where Friedrich Schiller worked on his Wallenstein in his young years. Until the 1990s, the cityscape of Ludwigsburg was also marked by military buildings, as Ludwigsburg was one of the most important military locations in Germany for over 250 years. After the barracks were made available for other purposes as of 1993, Ludwigsburg strove to ensure their conservation for civil uses.

THE HUNTING LODGE AND SUMMER RESIDENCE FAVORITE

The Hunting Lodge and Summer Residence Favourite, which was built by Duke Eberhard Ludwig between 1717 and 1723, is located just a five minutes’ walk away from the Residential Palace. SHORT INFO

The region of the city of Montbéliard is located in eastern France and is characterised by low rolling hills and extensive river valleys. The city carries the title of “Ville Quatre Fleurs” and impresses visitors every year with its colourful diversity and sensational flower arrangements. Lively history and active festival life make Montbéliard an attractive destination.

The administrations of the two cities work closely together, organising annual work conferences on current issues.

The parks departments take turns designing representative spaces in an urban area of the corresponding partner city.

Additional cooperation takes place in the tri-town agreements between Montbéliard, Ludwigsburg, and Kongoussi in Burkina Faso. This project primarily realises humanitarian and developmental projects such as the construction of schools, wells, and watering systems to support the population’s fight against poverty and illiteracy.

BRIEF HISTORY

The cities of Montbéliard and Ludwigsburg have been connected with one another for over 600 years through a close relationship – the joining of the two royal families by marriage. This long historical relationship led to the foundation of the first German-French twin town agreement after the Second World War. Montbéliard is now a modern industrial city, characterised by the automobile company Peugeot, with an appealing, historic city centre at the foot of the palace of the Dukes of Württemberg. Montbéliard is also known for the buildings constructed by the famous Renaissance architect Heinrich Schickhardt, which still define the cityscape, like St. Martin's Church built between 1601 and 1607. Montbéliard also has a beautiful landscape: as the gate to Burgundy with the nearby cities of Belfort and Besançon, and the French Jura, it is a popular destination.

FUN & FACTS

The name Montbéliard comes from the Württemberg name Mömpelgard, which was increasingly adapted to the French language from the mid-15th century. The Mömpelgard barbels still have a place in Montbéliard's coat of arms today. Furthermore: in 1959, Ludwigsburg and Montbéliard established the first German-French association partnership. The exchange between the French folklore association "Le Diari" and the harmonica club from Ludwigsburg still exists today.

SHORT INFO

Situated to the north of the Welsh capital of Cardiff, the county borough offers delightful landscape, a simple country life, an interesting history, and extensive outdoor activities. In addition to English, Welsh is the second official language.

BRIEF HISTORY

The Caerphilly County Borough in the south of Wales was characterised by farming and livestock farming until the mid-18th century. Only at the start of the Industrial Revolution were coal and iron ore mines opened that soon defined the landscape of the county. In the early 20th century, about 40 collieries were in operation and the mining industry was the main employer of the region. In the next decades, the coal industry experienced several crises and the mines were gradually all closed until, in the late 20th century, the last mine went out of service. The majority of the spoil heaps were removed. Today, there are only a few spots where the industrial past of the area are visible. During this conversion, visible memories of the mining era were turned into meaningful meeting places (sports and outdoor fields, for example) and are now important centres of everyday life for the inhabitants.

SHORT INFO

The city is situated on the western coast of the Crimean Peninsula, which belonged to the Ukraine until it was annexed by the Russian Federation in the year 2014.

BRIEF HISTORY

Yevpatoria was founded by Greek settlers around 500 BC and given the name Kerkinitis. In the beginning, it likely existed as a city-state with its own economic and customs system. Archaeological excavations of coins are evidence of this, which have been preserved until today and can be viewed in the museum of local history. In the 15th century, the city was occupied by the Turks and captured by the Russians in 1793. Kerkinitida, Geslev and Yevpatoria. Over the course of history,

Cathedral of St. Nicholas

these three names can appear in documents referring to the city. These documents help historians reconstruct the constantly changing power relations over the years. The city has numerous sandy beaches and therapeutic mud sources, which is why it became famous as a health resort as early as the mid-19th century. Today, the development of tourism, as well as the health resort, is becoming increasingly important for the city.

St. Charles is situated on the banks of the Missouri River, right at the gates of the metropolis of St. Louis. The nearby Mississippi River is one of the most important waterways of the US.

BRIEF HISTORY

The city was founded in 1769 by the Franco-Canadian fur trader Louis Blanchette under the name Les Petites Côtes (The Little Shores) and was soon after renamed St. Charles. The name is borrowed from the patron saint of the first church of the city, San Carlos Borromeo. The city was the last civilised stop on the famous Lewis and Clark Expedition to the Wild West in 1804. the excellently preserved and renovated architecture of the Masaryk market square, in particular, were declared historic monuments in 1967. Nový Jičín was the capital of the “Kuhländchen” (cattle country), whose German-speaking population were exiled between 1945 and 1947. The city of Ludwigsburg took over in 1961 a goodparenthood for the “Kuhländchen”, the idyllic area in the east of Czech Republik. Today, the Kuhländer Archives in the Stuttgarter Torhaus in Ludwigsburg document the impressive history and tradition of the people of the Kuhländchen.
